transition of defense personnel into civilian life by equipping them with the knowledge and tools necessary for entrepreneurship and self-employment.

The visiting team was taken on a comprehensive tour of the university's state-of-the-art infrastructure, which included advanced laboratories and research facilities across various departments. These spaces showcased the university's commitment to innovation, technology, and support for budding entrepreneurs. The participants had the opportunity to interact with faculty members, researchers, and student innovators, gaining first-hand exposure to the ecosystem that nurtures startups and encourages creative problem-solving.

Following the facility tour, a specially curated lecture session was held, focusing on key aspects of entrepreneurship, startup incubation models, funding mechanisms, and the role of technology in business growth. The session emphasized the importance of cultivating an entrepreneurial mindset and provided insights into government schemes and institutional support available for aspiring entrepreneurs, particularly those with backgrounds in defense services.

This visit was a significant step toward empowering JCOs and ORs with the knowledge and inspiration needed to explore entrepreneurial ventures as a post-service career option. By bridging the gap between military experience and civilian enterprise, such initiatives aim to foster self-reliance and socio-economic integration for ex-servicemen.
