Institute's Innovation Day

The Innovation Day event, organized by TIEDC on 15 October 2025 to commemorate the birth anniversary of Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam, aimed to promote creativity, scientific temperament, and innovation-oriented thinking among students. The primary objective was to inspire learners to develop solutions for real-world challenges through a structured innovation process. By focusing on creative ideation, design thinking, prototyping skills, early-stage innovation development, and confidence in presenting ideas, the event encouraged participants to think beyond traditional academic approaches and envision themselves as future innovators and problem-solvers.

The program was designed to blend conceptual learning with hands-on experience. Students engaged in sessions on innovation awareness and design thinking, where they learned how innovators identify problems, study user needs, and convert ideas into executable solutions. The stages of design thinking—Empathize, Define, Ideate, Prototype, and Test—were explained with real-world examples. This was followed by a prototype ideation and concept development workshop in which students brainstormed ideas, evaluated feasibility, framed problem statements, mapped user journeys, and prepared mini-prototype concepts. Mentors provided guidance throughout, helping teams refine their ideas and align them with market or societal needs.

Overall, the event strengthened students' innovation and creative thinking abilities while enhancing their skills in teamwork, structured problem-solving, conceptual prototyping, and idea presentation. By the end of the workshop, participants gained deeper awareness of how real-world challenges can be addressed through systematic innovation. The event effectively fostered an innovation-driven mindset, motivating students to pursue meaningful and impactful solutions.
