The Entrepreneurship Cell held its Orientation Program on 25th August 2025 to welcome first-year students and introduce them to its vision, purpose, and activities while igniting an entrepreneurial spirit on campus. The session, designed to inform and inspire, highlighted entrepreneurship as not just starting a company but as a mindset to approach challenges and opportunities with creativity and initiative. The program featured an engaging mix of presentations, discussions, and interactive activities, where senior coordinators and team heads shared the E-Cell's journey, impact, and upcoming plans. Key highlights included an introduction to the cell's vision, explanation of team structures—Events & Operations, PR & Marketing, Corporate Relations, Finance & Sponsorship, and Design & Social Media—ice-breaker sessions to build teamwork, an open Q&A with core members, and motivational talks by student leaders on how the cell shaped their skills and opportunities. The orientation effectively balanced information and interaction, leaving students excited about their future involvement. As learning outcomes, the program helped them understand the E-Cell ecosystem and its role in fostering campus startup culture, develop an entrepreneurial mindset to see problems as opportunities, gain leadership exposure by exploring different roles, and build confidence in communication through direct interaction with core members.
