Session on From Ideas to Impact: Innovation, Technology & Entrepreneurship with IPR

The Institution Innovation Council (IIC), in collaboration with the Technology Incubation and Entrepreneurship Development Cell (TIEDC), Gender Champions Club and the Department of Biotechnology and Bioinformatics, organized a session to enrich the students with Basic of IPR and its inclusion in their future avenues of Entrepreneurship or research projects titled as “ From Ideas to Impact: Innovation, Technology & Entrepreneurship with IPR ” at JUIT Wagnaghat on 3rd November.

This special interactive session on “From Ideas to Impact: Innovation, Technology & Entrepreneurship with IPR” was organized to inspire students to think creatively, develop entrepreneurial mindsets, and understand the importance of protecting their innovations through Intellectual Property Rights (IPR). The session aimed to bridge the gap between ideation and implementation by emphasizing how technology and IPR play a vital role in transforming innovative ideas into successful ventures. Prof. Hemant Sood delivered an insightful talk focusing on how innovation and technology serve as the backbone of modern entrepreneurship. The speaker explained the innovation process — from idea generation and validation to prototype development and commercialization.

Objective of the Session

The key objectives of the session were to:

- Foster innovation and creative thinking among students.
- Introduce the fundamentals of entrepreneurship and startup culture.
- Highlight the role of technology in driving innovation and business growth.
- Create awareness about Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) and their significance in safeguarding innovations.

Interactive Segment

An engaging Q&A session followed, where students enthusiastically shared their ideas and sought guidance on patent filing, startup registration, and funding opportunities. The resource person provided valuable insights and practical advice on turning innovative concepts into marketable products.

Conclusion

The session concluded with a vote of thanks to the guest speaker and organizers. It was an enlightening experience that inspired students to pursue innovation-driven entrepreneurship and recognize the value of Intellectual Property in today’s competitive world.

The program successfully achieved its objective of motivating students to move “From Ideas to Impact.”
